STREAKS, STORYLINES & SIDEBARS

- LSU secured a 19-11 record and captured the program's seventh consecutive SEC Western Division title in 2011. However, the Tigers failed to make the NCAA Tournament for the first time since the 2004 season.
- Eight of LSU's 11 losses during 2011 came versus RPI Top 25 opponents including a pair of losses to Kentucky (No. 11), Tennessee (No. 14) and Florida (No. 16) along with Miami (No. 18) and Western Kentucky (No. 23).
- LSU's streak of seven straight SEC Western Division titles is the second longest streak in conference history only behind Florida's 14-year run on top of the SEC's Eastern Division from 1995-2008.
- LSU had five players garner All-SEC accolades last season. Desiree Elliott, Madie Jones and Meghan Mannari secured All-SEC Second-Team selections, while Helen Boyle and Malorie Pardo collected All-SEC Freshman Team honors. All five players return for the 2012 season.
- LSU graduated Lauren Waclawczyk and Michele Williams as the duo joined the program's 1,000 digs and 1,000 kills clubs, respectively.
- LSU was projected to win the SEC Western Division in the league's preseason coaches poll, while Elliott was one of nine players listed on the 2012 All-SEC Preseason Team.
- LSU is scheduled to play nine matches against Top 25 competition this season which includes a quartet of matches versus 2011 NCAA Tournament Sweet 16 squads (No. 2 Texas, No. 9 Purdue, No. 13 Kentucky and No. 18 Florida).
- LSU erased a 2-0 deficit at Mississippi State (Oct. 30) and against South Carolina (Nov. 13).
- Jones powered home a career-best 23 kills, while Mannari sprawled out for a career-high 39 digs to fuel the comeback victory over the Gamecocks.
- During the fifth set at Georgia, LSU found itself on the brink down 14-10 and wiped away six match points in one of its most gritty performances of the season.
- LSU finished the match on an 8-2 run sparked by three Jones kills, two Williams kills and two blocks involving Elliott to emerge with an 18-16 triumph.
- Since sets were moved to the 25-point format prior to the 2008 season, LSU has won 133 of 138 frames when compiling a 70 percent or better sideout efficiency.
- LSU's five setbacks came during set one against Auburn [Sept. 17, 2010], the third set versus Xavier [Sept. 9, 2011], set two at No. 13 Florida [Oct. 9, 2011], the fourth set against Ole Miss [Oct. 23, 2011] and set three at Auburn [Nov. 4, 2011].
- During LSU's victory over Louisiana-Lafayette, the Tigers made program history during Pardo's first career start at setter and connected for a single match record .638 hitting percentage.
- The .638 clip also was a SEC single match record and eclipsed Georgia's .630 ratio against Clemson during the 1982 season. It also checked in tied for 13th in NCAA history.

POSITION PREVIEW: MIDDLE BLOCKERS

- Desiree Elliott is the lone upperclassman and headlines a young group of gifted middle blockers.
- Elliott has already hammered home 630 kills during her first two seasons and her 3.40 per set average in 2011 ranked eighth among the SEC leaders.
- Elliott, the 2010 SEC Freshman of the Year, also tallied a team-high 102 blocks to anchor LSU's front row defense.
- Elliott notched 37 of those 102 stuffs during her last eight matches [Oct. 30-Nov. 26] and equaled a career-best with eight blocks at Auburn [Nov. 4].
- Elliott posted a run of 12 consecutive matches with 10 or more kills [Aug. 27-Oct. 7]. She ripped a career-best 23 spikes versus Ole Miss [Oct. 23].
- Elliott tallied a career-best .722 hitting percentage during her season debut en route to 14 kills on 18 swings with one error against Louisiana-Lafayette [Aug. 26].
- Marissa Maas and Madi Mahaffey are looking to build on freshmen seasons where they contributed in limited roles.

- Mannari sparked the back row defense with 518 digs at a 4.67 digs per set average to rank second in the SEC. She posted double figure digs in 27 of her 29 appearances at libero.

- Mannari racked up a career-best 39 digs against South Carolina [Nov. 13]. The 39 digs for Mannari were a season-high for a SEC player in 2011. They also were the second-most during program history for a single match, only behind former All-American Elena Martinez's 43 digs at Alabama during the 2007 season.
- Mannari cranked a team-high 38 aces, charted a team-best 14 perfect passer rating with 10 or more attempts.

NO. 3 TEXAS 3, LSU 0 • 12/01/07

AUSTIN, Texas - The LSU volleyball team fought gallantly, but came up short against a senior-laden third-ranked and fourth-seeded Texas Team, 30-21, 30-22, 30-23, at Gregory Gym to end its season.

The loss ends LSU's season at 25-8, as the Tigers posted their third-straight 20-win season, with a third-straight Southeastern Conference Western Division championship.

"I'm really, really proud of my team," said LSU head coach Fran Flory. "I thought they represented what we tried to do, but it was truly a match-up of a bunch of seniors on a mission playing a bunch of young kids trying to jump start us and get us to the next level. Credit Texas, but I couldn't be any prouder of this team than I am."

Junior Marina Skender led the match with 16 kills and a team-best .293 hitting percentage, followed by 13 kills from Kyna Washington. Playing on an injured foot that had her on crutches prior to the match, Lauren DeGirolamo led the Tigers with three blocks. Elena Martinez closed out her record-setting season with 12 digs to give her a new SEC single-season record of 740. Haley Reuther came in to post a pair of service aces, as did Skender.

Destinee Hooker led Texas with 12 kills, followed by 10 from Ashley Engle and 10 each from Juliann Faucette and Brandy Magee. Michelle Moriarty led the Longhorns with seven blocks, followed by six each by Lauren Paolini and Magee. Faucette led Texas with 16 digs and recorded the only ace of the match for the Longhorns.

"We played about as well as we could play and we didn't give them much of a fight," said Flory. "Our offense was much improved from last night. If you look at how many hitting errors we had compared to the number of their blocks, we didn't have too many unforced errors. I thought we made them earn their points and I thought they did an outstanding job."

LSU jumped out to a 3-0 lead early in the first game before Texas came back to tie it up at four. The pair traded the next two points before the Longhorns went on a 3-0 run to take the lead for good, 9-6. Texas pulled out to a five-point lead, 16-11, but the Tigers came back to cut the lead to three, 18-15. The Longhorns then scored five straight to pull away as Texas went on to take game one, 30-21.
